The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—What matters most to the Roosevelt Administration right now is how the New Deal is getting across in the U. S. A. With a critical Congress about to convene, with farm revolt in the Midwest, with reports of Blue Eagles being yanked down in small towns, Roosevelt has his eyes on the scene outside Washington more than at any other time.

To gauge the effect of the New Deal in the U. S. A. at large the MERRY-GO-ROUNDERS have temporarily split forces, one remaining in Washington, the other taking a quick trip through the Midwest. Here is the first installment of The Midwest Merry-Go-Round.

EN ROUTE THROUGH INDIANA—Three things in this part of the country impress anyone fresh from Washington.

One is that despite whatever grumbling there may be against the New Deal, F. D. R. himself has lost none of his personal popularity. You can't criticize the President, even in the recalcitrant Midwest—and get away with it.

Second is the fact that the grumbling is not as bad as the reverberations heard in the National Capital make it appear.

Third is the fact that compared with one year ago, the Midwest looks rejuvenated.

It is true that the Blue Eagle is about as popular with the farmers as a Blue Rattlesnake. It is true that in the smaller towns NRA codes actually have worked hardships. It is true that Republicans for the first time have raised their heads from the Slough of Discouragement and have let a hopeful gleam enter their eyes. But to this Merry-Go-Rounder who travelled through the same region just a year ago, the transformation can be seen without either microscope or imagination.

Here is how things look in three completely different cities.

STATE TO BE IN CONTROL RUM SALES

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 9.—UP—Public drinking is banned under California's liquor regulatory laws but the sale of liquor in original packages is virtually unrestricted—even to the extent that there is no local option.

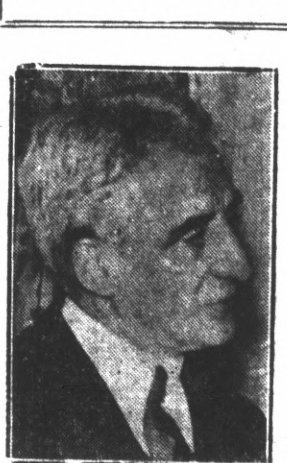

A resume of provisions of the constitutional amendment and interpretations by Attorney General U. S. Webb showed tonight the state, through the board of equalization, has sole authority to enforce the regulations.

Palo Alto and other communities which voted against the sale of liquor and beer are powerless to prevent the sale of liquor in original packages. Retail stores in those communities may obtain permits and deal in spirits in beverage cases. State law supersedes local option.

Petition by a "certain percentage of property owners" in a block, a liquor dealer who complies with the law cannot be prevented from selling in that block.

There is virtually no limit to the amount of liquor an individual may buy. The law limits him to five gallons at a single purchase, but if he wants more all he has to do is visit other stores or return (Continued on Page Eight)

REBELLION CRUSHED BY LOYAL ARMY

HAVANA, Nov. 9.—UP—Loyal government troops crushed the backbone of a rebellion against the government of President Ramon Grau San Martin today.

In a devastating, heavy bombardment of Acares fortress, an ancient colonial fort on the outskirts of the national capital, the army's artillery corps battered 700 rebels concentrated there into swift submission.

Unofficial estimates of casualties placed the dead at upwards of 100 in the last 36 hours of fighting which spread terror through Havana and endangered American lives and property. The wounded ran into hundreds.

Embattled rebels at Acares Fortress ran up two white flags at 3:40 P. M. today, after an hour's bombardment by loyal government troops.

Reports said that the victorious army forces proceeded to shoot down the rebel prisoners on their surrender at Acares. The reports were denied at the presidential palace.

The United States consulate staff during the afternoon telephoned all Americans in Havana to remain indoors after dusk. The Interior Department and the army general staff issued a communique announcing that persons on the streets after 6 P. M. proceeded at their own risk.

James O'Connell, an American resident in Havana, was gravely wounded with 13 others while standing at the Tallapiedra docks, presumably watching the Acares bombardment.

Water Debate Finishes In Near Riot

SAN JOSE, Nov. 9.—A public debate on the $170,000,000 central valley water project almost ended in blows here tonight when the principals went toward each other on the platform after exchanging heated words.

Fred G. Athearn, San Francisco attorney who opposes the project, resented a remark by P. D. Newell, Tulare rancher and his opponent in the debate.

Newell said the water project, subject to a referendum vote soon, was being fought by the "power trust."

Athearn said he resented the implication he was employed by the power trust.

One word led to another. Flots of the debaters were exchanged. The audience shouted and grew restless.

W. L. Bachrodt, superintendent of schools jumped between the two men. He weighed more than 250 pounds and towered more than six feet. Athearn and Newell were calmed.

No decision was returned in the debate.

LEGION AIMS DEFENDED BY COMMANDER

A stirring defense of the aims and the ideals of the American Legion was delivered before a large audience in Memorial hall last night by Homer Challaux, state commander of the Legion.

The talk was heard by a large crowd of veterans, business men and others.

Prior to the talk Challaux was entertained at a dinner served at the Hotel Carquinez. This dinner was attended by city officials, veteran officials and others.

In his talk last night, the Legion leader declared that the term "veteran" which has been hurled at the Legion members is unfair and untrue. He declared that the Legion has pursued campaigns to assist the disabled veterans and that in their enthusiasm they have allowed politicians to put over schemes in the name of the Legion that costs discredit upon the Legion.

He roundly scored the national economy act, whereby hospitalization of veterans was cut off. One of the provisions in the economy act did away with "presumptive" cases, whereby veterans could claim pension benefits were due to wartime service and get treatment. Under the new law conclusive proof must be shown that such injuries were incurred.

The speaker declared that this had worked a great injustice upon many.

Particularly did he score the measure that denies free hospitalization to veterans, claiming that at Livermore hospital alone 25 beds are vacant and that many veterans needed hospital treatment. He declared by this act many veterans must seek aid from their counties and cities, increasing the tax burdens of their communities.

He told of the examining boards, which are mostly manned by the Legion who examine men to discover whether or not their injuries received and for which they (Continued on page 8)

KIDNAPPERS TELL STORY OF CRIMES

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—UP—A gang of college educated men accused of taking half a million dollars from kidnaping victims has been broken up and at least four of the leaders are in custody, it was revealed today by authorities.

Secrecy surrounded the arrests and the obtaining of alleged confessions from the men. It was known however, that at least four of them were taken today, one at a time, to a house on the outskirts of the city, and questioned. It was indicated that possibly seven others were under arrest in neighboring cities.

Credit for breaking up the gang was claimed both by Pat Roche, private detective, and State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney's offices. At the same time Federal Investigator Melvin Purvis stated that many of the crimes charged to the "college" gang really were committed by the Touhy gang.

The "college" gang operated over a period of three years, it was learned, and became so powerful that it defied Al Capone when he was gangdom's ruler. Their success in eluding capture for so long was due, it was said to the fact that only one had a criminal record, and that the cleverly arranged their kidnapings so that the blame invariably was placed against some known group of gangsters.

Another way in which it was claimed that they avoided suspicion was that they avoided suspicious places. (Continued on Page 3)

Cards Prepare For
Troy Game Saturday

PALO ALTO, Nov. 9.—UP—Tiny Thornhill drilled his Stanford Cardinals in defensive tactics today and finished up the practice session by polishing up his offense for the game with Southern California Saturday.

The Cardinals will have only a light workout tomorrow and en-train at night for Los Angeles.

Bob Maentz, speedy left half who has been nursing an ankle injury all week, has failed to regain his form.

BERKELEY, Nov. 9.—UP—Falling to go through with his threat of calling off practice the rest of week, "Navy Bill" Ingram, coach of California, sent his gridders through an intensive drill today. California plays Washington in a conference game here Saturday. Ingram devoted a large part of the afternoon to his third team, which he declared last night would start against the Huskies because of the lethargic state of his first two elevens.

STOCKTON, Calif., Nov. 9.—UP—Amos Alonzo Stagg, "grand old man" of football, tonight confidently awaited the invasion of St. Mary's. The conquerors of Fordham are heavy favorites over Stagg's small College of Pacific team for their game here Saturday.

"David slay Goliath," the veteran coach smilingly remarked, "maybe David got the break, and maybe we'll get a break Saturday."

The Gaels will arrive here Saturday morning.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—UP—"Spud" Lewis, coach of the University of San Francisco Dons, drilled his squad in stopping Loyola plays today. The Lions oppose the San Francisco team here Sunday. U. S. F. will muster full strength against the visitors for the first time this season.

CORVALLIS, Ore., Nov. 9.—UP—Last session behind closed gates was held by Oregon state here this afternoon in preparation for the game with Oregon Saturday. Coach Lou Stiner declared that "his team was ready to go."

He added he would not necessarily use his "iron men" combination throughout the game. "I'll substitute as soon as things fail to go smoothly," he said. Dan Mitola, a tackle, may be used in guard to abet Stan McGraw, who is replacing the injured Bill Tomsech.

EGENE, Ore., Nov. 9.—UP—Figuring that "Norm Franklin" goes, so go the Beavers' Coach Prink Callison gave his men one last trial drill today in plays designed to halt the Orange flier. Scrimmages with the frosh, who are familiar with Oregon State plays, gave his men a chance to diagnose the probable O. S. C. attack. The Webster plan a light workout here Friday morning before entraining for Portland.

Members of the firm said the safe contained jewelry. When employees reported for work, tools and cigar butts left by the burglars littered the floor.

It isn't necessary to pay 50¢ or more to get quality in a dentifrice. Listerine Tooth Paste, made by the makers of Listerine, comes to you in a large tube at 25¢. Note how it cleans, beautifies and protects your teeth. More over it saves you approximately 45¢ a year over 50¢ dentifrices. Buy things you need with this saving—gloves are a worthy suggestion. BALL CLUBS TO
SEE ACTION IN GAMES SUNDAY

When the Standard Feed and Fuel nine cross bats with the Lambrecht company team at El Cerrito Sunday it may have an important bearing on the final standings in the Richmond City League during the first half of play. At present the Lambrechts are awaiting the outcome of a protest sent to the Southern California Baseball Gamblers' Association over a contest with the Palace Markets. Should the Oakland unit hand down a favorable decision to the Lambrechts and order the game played, it means the Furlers are still in the running for honors if they can defeat their Sunday opponents.

For some reason or other each team does not meet each other twice during the first round of play. It is rather peculiar that some of the teams compete against each other on two occasions. It is believed that the Furlers may insist on playing the Palace Markets once more during the first half if they get over the Lambrechts Sunday and, of course, providing the Lambrechts take the Palace Markets.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars play the Palace Markets on the Seventh Street diamond. The Markets should have little difficulty in keeping their win streak intact. Steve Le Gault and Sam Miguel will probably be the starting battery. The Vets may depend on Mike Dolan to stage an upset. If it is a warm afternoon and old Mike is given plenty of support he will be a tough hurdle for the Markets.

Bethards, a local high school pitcher, will make his first appearance in a Piggly-Wigly uniform Sunday when his team tangles with the Odd Fellows. It is "Lefty" Periccone's turn on the mound for the Linkers. This should be a battle as both teams are fighting to stay out of the cellar.

cion was by kidnapping men who were engaged in questionable enterprises and who usually preferred to pay a ransom and let the matter drop without attracting any publicity to themselves.

It was reported reliably that three of the men under arrest were Frank Souder of Benton, Ill., Dave Jones of St. Charles, Ill., and Dean Swolley of Peoria, Ill. All these men, it was said, had attended colleges. Another member of the gang, it was said, had a degree from a university.

Two of the men were identified. It was said by James Hackett, a Blue Island gambler who was kidnapped twice and paid $75,000 each time for his freedom. Al Capone once tried personally to secure Hackett's release. He was told to mind his own business and die.

Some of the others reported to have contributed to the gang's income were William Urban, Peoria gambler, $100,000; John J. Lynch, Chicago bookmaker, $50,000; James Ward, alleged bootlegger, $45,000; Jack Bivans, Aurora gambler, $11,000; and a number of others whose abductions were never even reported to police but who, according to the reported confessions, paid amounts ranging from $10,000 to $100,000.

way back toward the peak of prosperity. When you consider that the peak of prosperity was abnormal, that is quite a comeback.

This is how it works out: Man-hours per work in Cleveland during the peak of 1929 were 4,000,000. At the depth of the depression in 1932 they touched 1,000,000. But in August under the New Deal they snapped back to 2,100,000. In October they dropped off again by about ten per cent, now are at about 1,900,000.

Cleveland, a steel town, suffered through the NIRA spurt. Knowing that prices, wages were being upped, that hours were going to decrease, steel plants worked overtime, accumulated surpluses at low cost. Now they are undulating at higher prices. That slows down work. Hence the slight October slump.

Even in conservative Cleveland a lot of people think inflation is inevitable. That does not mean they are for it. They are not. Early Martin, hard-hitting editor of The Cleveland News, wrote an editorial ad-

This part of Kentucky normally with a big Republican vote is strong for the New Deal. The NRA is viewed with both sympathy and criticism. Small store-keepers who have been hiring extra clerks at $5 to $7 a week, have got rid of them because of the higher salaries forced by the NRA. Madame Perkins is blamed for not having settled a strike of workers on the construction of a Federal Forensic farm.

The farmers are less happy but are working out a plan for the curbing of Burley cigarette tobacco. Their chief fear is that after they restrict their own acreage, production of Burley will start in other states. It has already started in Missouri.

Reports from Prague are that Francis White is launching up his heels at the State Department's predicament in Cuba. White tried desperately to be Ambassador to Cuba, was appointed Minister to Czechoslovakia instead. The State Department has decided one thing. If and when it is called before the Senate Banking Committee to explain its part in supporting Macdonald with American money, it will NOT send a career man.

The last time a career man appeared before a Senate committee, career diplomacy got an awful wallop. Michael Wright, once private secretary to Sir Lame Howard, can't keep away from the U. S. A. After coming over with Ramsey MacDonald last spring, he is now back on a "business holiday."

PLANE SENT TO RESCUE OF SURVIVORS

CAMERON BAY, NORTHWEST TERRITORY, Nov. 9. (By radio to the United Press)—A rescue plane roared out of the wind swept outpost of the Arctic late today bound for a desolate point on Great Bear Lake where survivors of a wrecked steamship are now dead.

Word of the plight of the crew was brought here by two companions of the shipwrecked men after an epic battle across ice-choked lake in subzero temperatures.

The wrecked craft is a boat of the Northern Waterways Transportation company, which supplies the isolated gold mining camps and prospecting crews in this wild country on the rim of the Arctic.

The boat started from Fort Franklin on the western shore of Great Bear Lake on a trip here. Shortly after leaving Fort Franklin, fire broke out. The crew was unable to check the rush of flames and the steamer sank. Two members of the crew were drowned. The others made their way to shore in a tiny rubber boat.

Two men then set out to bring word of the tragedy to Cameron Bay. They arrived today, near collapse from exhaustion and cold. They reported that their comrades, less able to withstand the hardships of the already bitter weather, could not survive long unless rescued.

The rescue expedition was outfitted immediately.

Cameron Bay is one of the northernmost stations of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. It is equipped with a seaplane base, a radio station for communication with the outer world and a small trading store to supply the wants of prospectors.

Book Week Will be Observed in City

Miss Davis of the children's department will be glad to interview and advise parents and others who are interested in the careful selection of children's books. The boys' and girls' room is open from 2:30 to 6:00 on school days and from 10:00 to 6:00 on Saturdays.

Every Constipated Person Should Try This

Stop taking pills, salts and other harsh physics that irritate and weaken the bowels. Such things merely force a movement without cleansing the liver of its excess bile, which explains why your constipation always returns in a day or two and you find it necessary to use more physics.

Everybody ought to know that a torpid, lazy liver clogged with bile is the true cause of habitual constipation. This clogged-up bile poisons the whole system and upsets digestion, resulting in bad breath, headaches, coated tongue, yellow skin, poor stomach, gas, dizziness, or high blood pressure. After a good internal cleansing with Pilex, which also tones up and regulates the liver, these symptoms usually disappear completely.

Pilex is made from the 300-year-old extracts of harmless medicinal herbs—Nature's own remedies. It works gently, safely, but most effectively. Large bottle 11¢ at any good drug store.

Alfred Cline Identified As Dr. W. J. Worm

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 9.—UP.—Further identification of Alfred L. Cline, held in Los Angeles on a robbery charge, was en route to Portland today from Los Angeles at the request of local authorities.

Captain of Detectives Harvey A. Thatcher said he believed Cline and Dr. William J. Worm, alleged swindler who operated here some time ago, are one and the same man.

He assertedly defrauded a number of women, most of them nurses, before he disappeared in April of 1932. She said one nurse had been swindled of $700.

Police records show Dr. Worm is also wanted in Seattle and Chicago.

Driver Held In Death of Woman

Frank Chord, driver of a car that resulted in the death of Mrs. Maybelle Franks, a night club entertainer several weeks ago, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace John Moore yesterday.

Chord is charged with driving while intoxicated.

The driver is being held in lieu of $1000 cash bail.

FARMERS USE DYNAMITE IN THEIR FIGHT

DES MOINES, Nov. 9. (By radio to the United Press)—Fire and dynamite were employed today in the midwest farm strike territory, while non-striking farmers perfected organizations to defy highway pickets "with shotguns if necessary."

Two railroad bridges were wrecked allegedly by adherents of the farm holiday program. Neither was destroyed, but both were damaged seriously.

A highway culvert was dynamited by strikers near Warsaw, Wis., and an attempt made to dynamite a barn near Waukesha, in the same state.

At the same time, non-striking farmers in at least four Iowa counties, and dairymen in various parts of Wisconsin, were banding together in hundreds to carry their produce to market. Their leaders said they would "fight violence with violence."

The strikers gained two important victories during the day.

In Illinois, where strike activity appeared only in the last few days, 75 strikers were cited in the request of a committee of strike sympathizers. State highway police conveyed milk and livestock trucks to Kankakee, although no violence was reported.

New price contracts were near failed between dairymen and distributors in the Green Bay and Twin Cities districts of Wisconsin and Minnesota. Both communities have been suffering from a serious shortage of milk.

The bridges damaged are near Portsmouth, Ia., and Thurston, Ne. Investigating officials said tonight that there was evidence that kerosene and other combustibles had been used in starting the fires.

Two other railroad bridges were burned earlier this week. Dumping of milk and other produce was continued, especially in Wisconsin. A carload of choice potatoes, bound for Chicago, was unloaded on a siding near Martine, Wis. About 26,000 pounds of potatoes were frozen.

Strikers and anti-strikers held meetings in all parts of the state, planning future courses of action.

Pickets had disappeared in the tri state area of Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska. Law enforcement officials were particularly active in that district. Cold weather was believed to have played a part in recession of activity.

'FREEDOM OF PRESS SAFE' - JOHNSON

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 9.—UP—George Hugh Johnson, N. R. A. leader said here tonight that he was amazed at the reception he was receiving in the middle west.

"I would never have left Washington if I'd known that things were in as good a shape as they are," he said.

"I expected to be heckled at Des Moines and Omaha, and I was cheered."

He repeated early assertions that the freedom of the press is not menaced by the NRA. He answered at some length questions propounded today by a front page editorial of the Kansas City Journal Post.

"There is no question of freedom of the press," he said. "It's a bugaboo on the stairs. Freedom of the press is protected by the Constitution."

"It is beneath the dignity of the President for him to have to agree with anyone that he will not violate the constitution. I think there are some people who believe the freedom of the press is in danger."

Your Good Health

By CLAUD N. CHRISMAN, M.D.

Ptyorrhea, a Common Ailment, Easy to Get And Hard to Cure

WE HEAR so much about ptyorrhea these days that it is well to consider what it is, why we have it, and how to prevent it. It is one of the oldest of ailments, and one of the most common. Every five people has it in some form. When it once gets well advanced, it is difficult to cure, unless very radical measures are taken. Ptyorrhea is a disease which causes the tissues that surround the teeth, beginning with the gums, to break down and become detached. When the gums are healthy they cling very closely to the teeth and come up to a little point between the teeth. Normally they are pink and dense and firm and do not give with pressure.

THE disease progresses slowly and gives no pain or discomfort at the start. Later the gums become swollen and spongy and do not adhere closely to the teeth. They bleed easily and when you brush the teeth or bite into a pear or apple or sweet corn a little blood shows. These are warning signs which should not be neglected. As the gums recede from the teeth, particles of food get under the gum and soon we have pus and a general poisoning of the system, similar to that from an abscessed or infected tooth.

THE most common cause of ptyorrhea is tartar on the teeth. It is the same kind of formation as stones on the bladder, kidney or urinary bladder. It is deposited in the mouth directly from the saliva. It is a stony concretions which appears most commonly where the salivary glands empty into the mouth, which affords more room for more tartar. The trouble extends and finally the bone of the socket becomes inflamed and gradually absorbed. It may proceed to such a great extent that the teeth fall out.

AT FIRST this deposit is soft and light colored, later it becomes hard and thick and dark colored. Nature does not like any foreign substance. This tartar irritates the gums and they draw away from it, leaving a pocket which affords more room for more tartar. The trouble extends and finally the bone of the socket becomes inflamed and gradually absorbed. It may proceed to such a great extent that the teeth fall out.

POOR filling of the teeth may be the cause, if they are left rough and uneven, setting up irritation. Poorly applied fillings and crowns may start the mischief. Indeed poor crowns have caused so much trouble that many dentists will not put them on. Mechanical irritation from tooth picks can be a serious cause. Rough handling of a stiff tooth brush which scratches the gums is to be avoided. In short any thing which starts an irritation of the gums may cause ptyorrhea. Once started, the process may be arrested and relief may be given for a long time. Extraction of the teeth cures the disease, but often so much of the bone socket has been destroyed that the dentist may encounter great difficulty in constructing a plate that will give satisfactory service.

ALL debilitating diseases and run down conditions contribute to the progress of the disease and your general health must be good if you expect relief from the trouble. It is easier to prevent than to cure ptyorrhea. Your physician should make a careful examination of your whole system. Good health and a balanced diet should be your endeavor. Plenty of tomato juice, orange juice, citrus fruits and fresh green vegetables aid in making healthy gums. Visit your dentist and follow his orders. Do not treat yourself. Brush lower teeth from root upward and upper teeth from above downward. Remove all food particles from the rough surfaces. Keep your teeth clean and your body healthy.

MAKE-UP HINTS WHEN HASTE IS OF IMPORTANCE

By JACQUELINE HUNT

HAVE N'T you often come home from your office or from your shopping tour or finished some wondrous task and felt thankful for a free evening only to have the telephone jingle? Often as not it was an invitation to an impromptu party, a friend who has just arrived in town or something that means a last minute engagement when you are tired enough to drop and your worst.

Your mirror reveals fatigue lines around your eyes and your cheeks and mouth drop discouragingly. Certainly your reflection does not promise a ray of evening. But it is possible to remove all the little fatigue lines, refresh your eyes and lift the weary muscles around your mouth and cheeks. You can change in half an hour or less from a tired business girl or housewife into a sparkling lady with a happy, confident expression. And, believe it or not, it is easy.

Do not feel panicky—that does not accomplish anything. Calmly remove your binding clothes and slip into a light dressing gown and then for a freshening-up treatment that will relax the facial muscles and while they are resting and taking on more youthful lines, bathe your face with a good face cream.

Let's pretend that your engagement is for seven o'clock and it is now six. While I outline the treatment for you, you will watch the clock. You are tired and hungry but you must remake yourself in the next half hour, so let's get started. Cleanse your face and throat with tepid water and a soft cloth of mild soap. Rinse and spread a heavy coating of tissue cream over your face, being especially generous with it around the eyes.

Now take a teaspoon and dip it in a cup of very hot water and when the spoon is comfortably hot, use the back of it to massage your sagging muscles and smooth out the little tired lines. Keep the spoon hot and repeat each massage movement several times. Work from the outer corners of the eyes in toward the nose, then repeat the spoon and cup it over first one eye, then the other eye for a minute. It is magic in the way it brings the sparkle back to your weary eyes.

When you have relaxed the muscles of your face, you need to stimulate them. Pour a little good skin tonic into a dish with a small piece of ice and saturate a pad of cotton in the liquid. Pat it lightly over the throat, your cheeks and the areas at the corners of your eyes. Your bath water should be running while you are going about this revivifying facial. After the tonic apply a little more tissue cream massage swiftly and leave it on while you take your soothing, warm bath.

Finish with a cool shower and use a coarse towel for drying. Your nerves and muscles will be stimulated and you will feel a little hungry. Take a glass of milk, a glass of orange juice or a couple of crackers to appease your hunger and lie down for a ten or fifteen minute rest. Put a pad of cotton dipped in cold water or which has been over your eyes to further refresh them. At the end of your rest period, get up and remove any cream that remains on your face with cold water. Skin tonic and apply your party make-up. Dress and you are ready to go—a lovely sparkling new person. Do not rush with your make-up or dressing. Your treatment, bath and rest will not take more than half an hour, so you will have plenty of time.

MODES AND MANNERS

QUESTION: "A friend has re-entered business following a divorce and is using her maiden name. Is this good form? Some folk in our town are criticizing her. They seem to think that a woman who has been married should retain her husband's name and be known to the world as 'Mrs.—Ann V.'"

ANSWER: It is customary for a divorced woman to retain her former husband's surname. It is just as correct, however, though less usual, perhaps, for her to resume her maiden name. This is purely a matter of preference. Married women with husbands as correct. Who has a better right to resume her maiden name, than a woman who gives up a husband through divorce?

:: SPEAKING OF STYLE ::

By IRENE VAIL

New York—Those who can afford to wear striking clothes glory in the privilege this season's fashions give them to wear very "horsey"-looking woolsens. Plaids and large checks and some stripes appeal at all outdoor gatherings to which one wears one's best-looking field clothes.

Coat Colors

When it comes to the best coat, women have a strong prejudice for black, but the season offers them some pleasant alternatives in the form and color of blackberry, which is all but black, and cel-gro, which is so dark and so neutral that it substitutes nicely for it. There are also some rich plums, ripe for the picking, and the usual array of coppery and warm brown tones and some blues and to mention green, which seems to gather momentum.

That coats may have well formed and fitted necks is still something to talk about. These necks smooth out the shoulders and make a new line, which is sometimes accentuated by fur, the more itself is often fur, we might mention. When it comes to collars, the straighter they are the better.

Hat Plomage

With all Paris occupied in trimming hats with aigrettes, and bird of paradise feathers, dear to the heart of the Parisian elegance, New York is equally busy finding "ornaments" for the prohibited plomage. And with the usual American ingenuity, the result has been more than paid for the trouble.

When it is no question of a feather, but of a bird, it may be burnt, or of peacock, or not a feather at all. Now monkey fur is being tried in a delectable, almost grotesque arrangement, known to parvies as "pomps" can come in many shapes in the manner of bird of paradise strands.

Tasty Dishes for Today

BEEF AND PORK AT SMALL COST

By JUDITH WILSON

THE less expensive cuts of beef, pork, veal and even lamb lend themselves to all kinds of intriguing main dishes for the low cost dinners that are so important in the plans of the average housewife right now. Since we have discussed beef already, let's have the recipes for the dishes that were mentioned in yesterday's menu.

Beef Stroganov—Cook a chopped onion in two tablespoons of butter. Cut a pound and a half of round steak into narrow strips and fry them for two or three minutes with the chopped onion. When browned, transfer the pieces of meat to a deep frying pan or saucetpan. Add a tablespoon of butter to the drippings in the pan, stir in two teaspoons flour, one teaspoon dry mustard, half a teaspoon of salt, a dash of pepper and two cups of soup stock or hot water. Let this sauce cook for a few minutes, then pour it over the meat which should be placed over a low flame.

Cut raw potatoes into narrow strips, brown these in butter, put them in with the meat and let the combination simmer until the meat and potatoes are tender. Just before serving stir in two tablespoons of sour cream.

Beef Surprise

For the beef surprise given in the menu above, form well seasoned mashed potatoes into a roll about eight inches long and four inches through. Season two pounds of chopped beef with two teaspoons of salt, one eighth teaspoon pepper and two tablespoons of Worcestershire sauce. Add a slightly beaten egg. Put the meat on a piece of waxed paper, put out about one-third inch in thickness. Wrap the meat around the potato roll, overlap the edges and press firmly. Remove the paper and put into a loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven for forty-five minutes or, if you wish you can make tiny rolls, dip them in egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat.

Pork-Banana Loaf

The pork and banana loaf is delicious and unusual in flavor but it is a grand way of using up odds and ends that accumulate. Grind enough veal to make three-fourths of a pound and mix it with one pound of sausage meat. Mash two bananas and mix with the meat and with two slices of bread which have been soaked in water and squeezed dry, one teaspoon of sugar, salt and pepper. Form into a loaf. In a baking pan place two slices of bacon and fry just enough to oil the pan, put in the meat loaf and cover with three strips of raw bacon. Slice two small cucumbers and put around the loaf in the pan. Roast in a hot oven about fifty minutes. Serve hot, brought up so much pork for distribution to needy families. I would like to give you a few hints on using "salt" pork. It has more uses than any other kind of meat. You can fry it and serve it with milk gravy and hominy, or with fried tomatoes or cabbage or you can serve it with boiled vegetables or starchy foods of any kind. If you buy salt pork, remember that salt is a preservative and it should not be washed off until you are ready to use the meat. Lean salt pork needs to be soaked for several hours before using.

Small pieces, such as hamburger, chicken and steaks, should be cooked out slowly, rather than by high heat, so the fat is rendered out from the meat. This renders the fat out from the meat, so the work of cooking as well as a better meal.

Augustus John, Rebel Painter . . . His Brush Never Flattered

MOST portrait painters achieve fame by flattery of their subjects. But Augustus John, regarded as Britain's outstanding living painter used a different system. He literally tweaked his victims by the nose and made them like it. His mastery of painting has always been beyond question, but his conceptions aroused one scandal after another in London's social and art circles.

In appearance, Augustus John meets the Bohemian ideal of an artist. He has long, flowing hair, a black beard and a highly individualistic personality. The black velvet jacket, Windsor tie and broad-brimmed hat of Mont-parnasse comprise his usual costume. The one thing he objects to about London is the absence of sidewalk cafes such as are seen on Paris boulevards. Nothing suits him better than to loiter at one of the sidewalk cafes, puffing a well-seasoned briar and drawing the fascinating stares of American tourists.

Unlike most artists, John's climb to fame was not beset by hardships in a lonely garret. His "studio" was his "apartment" in the quietest part of London. He was surrounded by his teachers and admirers during his student days at the Slade School in London. They are said to have compared his genius with that of the master, his master of materials being ranked with da Vinci.

Isadora Duncan, the famous dancer, was among John's enthusiastic admirers in his early years. After viewing one of his exhibitions, the beloved Isadora is reported to have said: "John, I think you are the greatest living painter." Without moving an eyelid, John replied: "Are you going to put it very mildly?"

HE WAS still a very young man when British matrons, debutantes, highborn earls and rich politicians brought him to do their portraits. Since their portraits for John's efforts was only matched by his contempt for their vanity the artists' fees, in most cases were nothing but modest. One by one he painted England's most prominent men and women and each portrait in turn evoked its tithe of a tonishment when it appeared.

John's portrait of George Bernard Shaw, critics said, made the famous dramatist appear as though he were "beating in a drunken sleep." Lloyd George's image, transplanted to canvas by John, drew out bursts, resembling a Smithfield butcher looking for his pole-axe, and "Shakespeare Young in a rage."

Even so, Augustus John has cared little what people thought of his portraits. His idea, he insists, is to seek for the soul of his subject and put on canvas what he saw. However not all of his portraits are uncomplimentary. Some are impressive and awe-inspiring, as is the portrait of his pole-axe, and "Shakespeare Young in a rage."

The late Lord Leverhulme was one of the few victims of John's brush who retaliated and got under the artist's skin. John painted a life-length portrait of Lord Leverhulme and when it was finished dispatched it to the peer. A few days later the crate in which the portrait had been packed was returned to the artist. On opening the crate, John found the painting with the head of Lord Leverhulme cut out. A tag attached read: "Herewith the remainder of portrait painted by Augustus John, July-August, 1929."

Shocked and indignant, John addressed a note to Lord Leverhulme demanding an explanation "for this, the grossest insult of my career." Leverhulme's reply was deeply apologetic. He explained in painstaking detail how the picture had arrived at such a valued treasure. He had decided to purchase the portrait from the frame, roll it up and place it in his safe; how he was disappointed to find the safe a bit too small to accommodate the whole picture and how he had consequently cut off the head, "which was really the important part," and locked it safely away.

Lord Leverhulme insisted he had not meant to return the remains to the outraged artist, stating this action had been his housekeeper's mistake. He had, in fact, he said, ordered the remains of the portrait kept so that if he ever wished to display the picture, he could put the head back into place and do so.

When London art circles heard of this incident they roared, suspecting the nature of the portrait. John, fumed and threatened to publish a photograph of the "beheaded portrait" as it appeared before decapitation, but he never did.

SINGLE WOMEN HAVE IT TOUGH WITHOUT JOB

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

THERE is a new optimism in the air. It is noticeable in any group of men, and of women who have men behind or beside them. But what of the single women?

Single women who gallantly enough have attempted to play a lone hand but who are cut out of the game in spite of the new deal? There seems very little prospect of jobs enough for every body. It is most likely that women will have to stand aside so that men may sweep on.

WHERE are these white-collared women going to find jobs? How is business going to reabsorb these, now idle women, who are being "relieved" temporarily and who are finding it pathetically hard to keep body and soul together? What is going to happen to them when these emergency relief measures are halted?

DOMESTIC service seems the answer to those who have wit enough to see that the business world cannot give work to everyone. I am afraid that women must face facts, and start in now overcoming prejudices against what was once called living out. As a matter of fact there are so many households who prefer not to have their "staff" live in, that it is possible for a woman to maintain some sort of a roof of her own under which she may sleep at nights and spend her off hours, and still be a part of the household machinery of some other woman's home.

NOT that every unemployed woman would be useful in the kitchen. Good cooks, some believe, are born and not made. Still women can be trained to usefulness and any woman who would not prefer another woman's kitchen to a park bench deserves to be left parked—in stormy as well as fair weather.

THE maid who lives in, is infinitely better off than the girl who works for a pittance in office or factory and has room rent to pay or who shares an apartment. Her expenses are practically nil and in modern homes her living quarters are de luxe compared to conditions in a home of her own. A room and bath falls to the lot of the woman who does housework in modern households.

IT'S absurd to imagine that doing such work is depriving one of self-respect, or that one is less one's own mistress than when working in stores and factories. Possibly the real reason women seem to rebel against this sort of employment is that they dislike working for a woman. This is because there may be a strong element of jealousy or envy of the mistress and self-pity for oneself. But why should this be, any more than when working under a woman elsewhere? Is it a dislike for being included in the servant class? Probably. But it is certainly not logical to prefer to be better than that, or to live on organized charity rather than be self-supporting, and in consequence self-respecting.

WOMEN who are now holding jobs are not only to be envied, but to be forewarned against being casual and careless with them. Some who are holding down their jobs are hands who cannot find work. That of course is a pity but isn't it only sane and sensible to agree that the member of the family who can get work is the one who has most to be thankful for? If it happens to be the woman who is either more capable, or more fortunate in getting a job, she should turn the other responsibilities over to the man.

NO MAN worth his salt is going to loaf while his wife is working. He is going to swallow his pride and do her part since she is doing his. What's so wrong about that? It is quite unlikely they either will like it but what about it?

IT IS an age of experiments, a noble and otherwise, a period of readjustments of nearly every condition. We face the fact that things are not what they were the better off everyone will be and the quicker chaos will be ended and recovery complete.

Old Rubber Gloves

Rubber gloves split very easily, but they can still serve a useful purpose. One finger, pulled over a bandaged finger, will keep the bandage clean and dry during a whole morning's work. Simply tie it closely at the base, or better still, use a rubber band which is easier to fix.

REBELLION CRUSHED BY LOYAL ARMY

the diplomatic corps which voted to request the government to guarantee the lives of the rebel prisoners. One report said 40 had been killed at Atares before the rebels surrendered, which would bring the dead above 100 in the two days of fighting.

Reports published abroad that the A B C leaders threatened to blow up American property and cause the United States to land marines were doubted here. It was pointed out that had they desired to force such an issue, they overlooked a great opportunity to demolish the Cuba Electric Company plant—a subsidiary of the Electric Bond & Share Company of New York—and the Armour plant, both of which are near Atares fortress.

Students returning from the front after the capture of Atares described the surrender. They said after government forces had scored several direct hits with big artillery shots, the rebels hauled down their Cuban flag and ran up a Red Cross flag.

Then four groups totaling about 40 men left the fortress and were moved down by army machine gunners spraying the front of Atares with a shower of lead. The rebels inside then ran up the white flag.

Just before the flag fluttered above the shell battered walls, a direct hit by the army's artillery produced a tremendous explosion in Atares. Fire from the rebels destroyed the loyal army post at Loma Del Burro, which with guns at Principe fortress had opened the government's offensive.

The army began heavy bombardment of the rebel stronghold at 2:30 p. m. ending a brief truce. Several cannon shots from the army post at Loma Del Burro, directed at Atares, missed the mark and fell into a drug store nearby, producing panic in the neighborhood.

The government attack followed a radio broadcast from the rebel headquarters announcing that they intended to attack in force at 3 p. m. The rebels warned the public to remain off the streets of Havana during the afternoon.

CLOSE WATCH ON GANGSTERS DURING TRIAL

ST. PAUL, Nov. 9.—UP—The black marbled, modernistic halls of the St. Paul county-city building bristled with armament today as the trial of four Chicago gangsters on charges of kidnaping William Hamm, Jr., wealthy brewer, got under way.

Guards watched all buildings exits and almost filled the "escape proof" courtroom on the eighth floor. So many spectators were able to find seats.

The four defendants, Roger Touhy and three members of his crew, faced removal to Illinois for trial on another major kidnaping charge it acquired here. The penalty for kidnaping in Minnesota is life imprisonment; in Illinois, it is Retaining warrants, charging Touhy and his co-defendants, Gustave Schaeffer, William Sharkey and Eddie McFadden, with abduction of John (Jake the Barber) Factor, were served at the opening of court by a Chicago policeman.

The Touhy defense staff was strengthened by the return of Thomas W. McMeekin, veteran of 20 murder trials. McMeekin withdrew from the case Tuesday. He will be associated with William Scott Stewart of Chicago.

The federal prosecution staff will be headed by Joseph B. Keenan, Assistant Attorney General, who prosecuted the kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil millionaire.

Opening of testimony was not expected to be reached until tomorrow. Both sides were taking unusual care in selecting a jury, fourteen men will sit in the box instead of the customary 12, to preclude the chance of a mistrial.

Judge M. M. Joyce approved an opening motion by the government to try simultaneously two indictments, charging interstate transportation of a kidnap person, and conspiracy to so transport.

DOCK LEASE TESTIMONY BEING TAKEN

Hearing of the action instigated by the port of Oakland and others against the Parr-Richmond Terminal corporation and Dried Fruit Shippers, Inc., seeking to void a lease under which the dried fruit company has taken over part of terminal No. 3, will be resumed this morning by the state railroad commission in San Francisco.

Fred D. Parr of the Parr-Richmond terminal corporation was on the stand yesterday when the hearing was adjourned until this morning.

It was announced that the terminal heads of the bay region had reached an agreement on terminal rates, which was the cause of a previous action filed against the Parr company. The other terminal companies had complained that the local wharves were allowing a lower demurrage rate.

The railroad commission had ruled against the Parr company, but a rehearing was requested. However, the agreement between the terminal heads will end this action, it is believed.

In another action, whereby the railroad commission ruled against private, independent car loaders unloading at the local docks, the Parr company has filed a writ with the State Supreme court for a review of the case.

At yesterday's hearing T. M. Carlson, city attorney of Richmond, represented the city of Richmond. He presented a resolution adopted by the city council declaring that the city was in favor of the lease to the fruit company.

Carlson defended the agreement as legal and justified under city shipping conditions.

Day McCrone, general manager of Dried Fruit Shippers was called to the stand. He told of general details surrounding the lease.

LEGION AIMS DEFENDED BY COMMANDER

are getting compensation are actually due to war services. He declared that an attempt is being made to see that justice is done for all.

The speaker cited one case where political pressure was brought to bear to have the sickness of one man, who served a month previous to the Armistice declared due to war services. The Legion board immediately denied the case and it was thrown out.

He particularly stressed the fact that through reductions of pensions many veterans of the Spanish American War are now in actual need.

An attack upon recognition of Russia was launched by the speaker. He declared that the Legion will always oppose recognition of that country as long as it employs paid agents in the United States to cause trouble.

That the government loaned millions to China for purchase of American wheat, which China later sold to Russia at half the price to pay its armies, Challaux held a unjust. He declared that this money would have been better used in given to the millions of jobless and needy in this country.

He scored the activities of partisans, who declare our nation is over armed. He cited one after case that prove beyond a doubt, he said, that this nation is under-armed and that our army, navy and reserves are only meager in comparison to other nations.

He closed his address with a stirring appeal for cooperation from the citizens of the United States, and for confidence of the country in the aims and ideals of the Legion.

Following his address a program of professional entertainment was presented.

STATE TO BE IN CONTROL RUM SALES

to the same store a few minutes later.

Liquor handled contrary to law cannot be seized or confiscated. Search warrants must be obtained before state officers investigate reports of violations.

Any kind of retail store may obtain an "off-sale" license to deal in liquor, providing the operator is a "man of good moral standing" and in the past has paid his sales tax. Although the chief dealers are expected to be grocery, drug, department and cigar stores, the law permits liquor sales by jewelry stores, garages, clothing stores or any other retail shop.

Liquor cannot be consumed on the premises of retail stores, nor in a public eating or drinking place. A store with an "off-sale" license cannot either serve wine or beer in glasses.

Individuals who wish to import their favorite foreign brands must buy an importer's license.

One of the few set rules against granting of licenses reads: "Licenses may be denied stores within 200 feet of a church or school."

WHAT are the PURCHASING AGENTS DOING?

EVERY big company has one or more men whose entire time is devoted to buying the things which that company needs.

These men are specialists. It is their business to know prices . . . materials . . . sources of supply . . . present and future trends. They are the shrewdest, canniest buyers in the world.

But ALL of us, in a small way, are purchasing agents. We HAVE to buy a certain number of things, if only to keep alive. And most of us aren't very skillful at it. We waste a lot of money. We miss the good bargains. In fact, we could learn a great deal by watching a professional buyer at his work.

At this time, especially, it may be helpful to know what the big purchasing agents are doing. Are they cutting down? Are they opening up? Do they think this is a good time to buy or a bad time? What do they think about the future?

Well, the answer is that they are all buying as fast as they can buy.

And they are buying because THEY KNOW THAT PRICES ARE GOING UP.

"Pig iron has advanced 13 percent", the purchasing agent of a $20,000,000 corporation recently said. "Brass is up 42 1/2 percent. I am paying 41 percent more for lumber than I did in March, and fiber packing cases have doubled in price. In fact, everything we use in this business is costing us more today, and will in my opinion cost us still more tomorrow. I believe . . . that many commodities will be back to or near 1929 levels by spring."

That's the way the professional purchasing agents feel about it. And they KNOW. They have special sources of information. They are closely in touch with industry. They have studied the workings of the NRA codes.

PRICES ARE GOING UP. And it's a good thing for everyone. For things had come to the point where NOTHING had any true value. A man's time . . . his product . . .

his property . . . all had sunk so low in value that he couldn't even get a decent living.

That couldn't go on. So the Government set up the machinery of the NRA codes in order to MAKE EVERYTHING WORTH SOMETHING AGAIN.

This process is now under way. Wages are being raised. Commodities are bringing better prices every day. But it is not yet over. Before fair values . . . living values . . . can be reached, prices will have to go higher than they are now.

Before they do, take a leaf from the purchasing agent's book, and lay in a supply of the things you need. There are many good bargains still to be had. But these stocks are strictly limited. NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.

Upturn Item

Pig-iron production, between August 1932 and August 1933, increased 245 percent.
